Krishnamoorthy, This book serves as a quick reference for the physician to cross check before arriving at the final remedy. It will help him in eliminating similar remedies and selecting the simillimum. It is like a repertory of the clinical conditions with the difference being that, instead of grading; indications help us select a remedy. Therapeutics for a few symptoms are also included (eg: flushed face, nausea, sediments in urine etc.,) which are indicative of certain medical conditions but not diseases all by themselves. The book speaks on the practical utility of homeopathic drugs as life saving medicines including therapeutics of burns, syncope etc., aided by a useful repertory.
