

Freewill

By Lynch, Chris

HarperTempest, 2002. Soft cover. Condition: New. 148 Pages. From Publishers Weekly: Will, a 17-year-old enrolled in a vocational woodworking class, falls under suspicion when his wood sculptures are found near the site of several teens' mysterious drownings or suicides. According to PW, this novel, narrated by Will in the second person, "focuses on the dark and murky corners of its main character's psyche. " Ages 13-up. (Sept.) Copyright 2002 Reed Business Information, Inc. From School Library Journal Gr 9 Up-Will has lost his father and stepmother in an accident that might not have been an accident. He goes to a special school because he didn't take their deaths well, or so it would seem. A string of teen suicides occur and the story gets a bit muddled when Will starts blaming himself for the deaths. The confusion is compounded when some of the adults seem to blame him as well. Readers probably won't like Will or his ineffectual grandparents. His grandmother and grandfather seem more like scenery that wrings its hands a lot than family. Readers might like Will's sometimes friend Angela who might be a lesbian since she insists she doesn't date boys. They may also relate to...
