Excerpt from The Latter-Day Saints Millennial Star, Vol. 64: April 10, 1902 On the 11th inst. We started on a four days trip by carriage to the Sea Of Tiberias and return. A railroad which was projected to connect with another road to Damascus, was built some years ago for eight or nine miles out of Haifa, but on account Of an insufficient supply of funds for the extraordinary disbursements necessary, the work was stopped. Probably the future will see the completion of this desirable road. For the German Emperor s visit new highways were constructed through Palestine, which, however, since then have received no care. We drove in about four hours to Nazareth, passing through several fine valleys on the way, the first one, the Plain of Acre or Of the Kishon, being the most fertile in Palestine. As we mounted the hill slopes just before reaching Nazareth a View Opened out below and before us that is one of the finest imaginable. Away to the south and east and west stretched the beautiful Plains of Esdraelon and J ezreel, the patchwork of strips Of velvet green fields and rich plowed land making it appear very pretty. Some of the most noted mountains of Scripture surround it, namely, Mount Carmel, the Gilboa Mountains, Little Hermon, Mount Tabor and the hills Of Nazareth. The river Kishon, that ancient river of the Song of Deborah, runs through the center. The valley was the great battleground Of early Israel. There the victory of Barak over Sisera was won, there Gideon with his three hundred defeated the Midianites, and Saul and Jonathan there met death. Nazareth is a town Of about ten thousand inhabitants,...
